Inscription on the Froelich Monument:

"In this village, John Froelich built the first gasoline tractor that propelled itself backward as well as forward. Far-reaching in its effect on modern agricultural history, it moved out of this village and into the world in 1892. Later that year Mr. Froelich joined the Waterloo Gasoline Traction Engine Company which later became the John Deere Tractor Company."

We appreciate your assistance helping to preserve John Froelich's gift to American Agriculture!
